

altMD Person of the Week 8-10-08!

Sunday, August 10, 2008

Jane Fecteau is an Intuitive Healer, practicing a variety of forms of vibrant Energy Medicine with offices in Kennebunk & Portland, Maine.

This week, Jane announced her fall class schedule which gave altMD the opportunity to connect with her and drill-down on what she is looking to accomplish.

It turns out that Jane has big plans for the Practitioner Training side of her business. While she will always continue to see her own individual patients, Jane has a focused plan-of-action in the works to train upwards of 150 new students in the art of healing via Energy Medicine. She is a passionate proponent of modalities that "entice the body to heal specific physical, emotional, mental, spiritual and life path functions. Many define this method as a "medical intuitive," which is a fundamentally different way of seeing unique information and thus guiding and energetically visualizing specific physiology to promote right function." Jane sees her training programs as a way to bring new practitioners into the field as well as give current specialists a new and exciting therapy to offer their patients and expand their business.

Jane Fecteau is altMD's person of the week because of her commitment to sharing the art and science of her "gifts" to both patients and practitioners alike. For more information about how you can participate and find a great excuse to visit Southern Maine in the late Summer and early Fall, visit Jane's altMD Listing to Learn More!